3. INTRODUCTION

Manufacturers of packaging materials are requested by European and non-European standards, to carry out migration investigations for plastics, that come into contact with food.

For WGM, as PET packaging producer, this would imply, that all possible combinations of assigned raw materials (PET granulates, color granulates) have to be examined concerning possible migration.

Moreover, WGM confirms, the following procedure was implemented to fulfill the demands:

- Each raw material supplier is regularly requested by WGM to deliver an actual written food compliance statement. Each statement confirms the food regulation compliance related to the current European and non-European standards.
- WGM assigns additionally to migration investigations in a random sampling way. The selection of the sample takes place according to fixed risk-criteria's.
- On the basis of the received suppliers statement and the random tests WGM provides and forwards own statements of compliance related to its sold materials.

With regard to the procedure described above, WGM is positive, that the residual risk for migrations remains justifiably low and is conform to the actual national and European regulations for food compliance.

We do thank you for your understanding of our approach.
